

Florida College Bible Department Faculty Member Refuses To Provide Scripture

To those who love (and to those who are seeking) the truth, I submit below the latest email I received from David McClister (a member of the unscriptural Florida College Bible Department) relative to the unauthorized practice of “brown bagging” the Lord’s Supper while on a vacation.

His words further demonstrate the liberal attitude hiding behind the mask of “conservatism.” Sickening. I mean really sickening. Please notice that David did not (and I am guessing will not ever attempt to do so) cite a NT passage which authorizes that which he affirms is lawful. I just wonder if Proverbs 3:5 is part of the memory work the Bible Department at FC assigns their spiritually blind students. If so, “teachers hear thyself” and practice what you preach.

My response to David’s newest email (in red below) was “Once again, I wrote because I care about your soul. Whether or not you actually “brown bag” is irrelevant. The point is that you think it is okay to do so. How sad.”

From: david.mcclister@verizon.net
Subject: RE: Greece Trip
Date: November 15, 2009 8:48:57 PM CST
To: 2timothy42@kc.rr.com

Scott,

I’m not convinced that 1 Pet 3:15 applies here, unless you are an unbeliever (the context mentions suffering and slander; is that what you intend for me?). As I said earlier, I am hoping to worship with Christians in Athens, so your confrontation is over a situation that has not even happened, and probably won’t.

May God bless the study of his word, both yours and mine.

David McClister

From: 2timothy42@kc.rr.com
Subject: Re: Greece Trip
Date: November 14, 2009 4:48:32 PM CST
To: david.mcclister@verizon.net

David,

I was wondering if you decided that 1 Pet. 3:15 did not apply to my question. Are you going to respond?

Scott Parker

On Nov 12, 2009, at 12:38 PM, Scott Parker wrote:

David,

I wrote because I care about your soul (1 Jn. 2:3-4).

Scott

On Nov 12, 2009, at 7:43 AM, David McClister wrote:

Scott,

Are you interested in going on the trip or did you email me just to raise this issue?

David McClister

From: Scott Parker [<mailto:2timothy42@kc.rr.com>]

Sent: Wednesday, November 11, 2009 5:49 PM

To: David McClister

Subject: Re: Greece Trip

David,

I would appreciate it if you would cite NT authority (Col. 3:17; Js. 2:12) for what you claim can be done; i.e. "Otherwise we can worship as a group ourselves." I did not realize that local churches sprang up for one Sunday and then dematerialized the same day. Thanks ahead of time for your timely reply.

Concerned,

Scott Parker

On Nov 11, 2009, at 4:03 PM, David McClister wrote:

Scott,

The trip will only have one Sunday; it goes from Saturday to Saturday. The guy who runs Aristotle Travel is a Christian, but someone told me that his group might be institutional. So I am checking into that, but if you know of a sound group there I would appreciate the info. I have a friend who has worshipped with a sound group over there before, so I will check with him also.

Otherwise we can worship as a group ourselves. Air schedules have not been determined yet, but I am assuming that we will be getting into Athens sometime on Sunday afternoon. Again, if you know of a sound group that we can meet with on Sunday evening, I would like to hear about it, otherwise we would have to meet as a group ourselves. Another complication is transportation, which adds not only bus fare but also tips, and I am trying to keep all of that to a minimum.

David McClister

Original Message: From: Scott Parker [<mailto:2timothy42@kc.rr.com>]

Sent: Wednesday, November 11, 2009 4:29 PM

To: david.mcclister@verizon.net

Subject: Greece Trip

Hello David. I saw your advertisement for the FC trip to Greece. With what faithful group will you be assembling with on the two Sundays?

Scott Parker