

BAPTISTS & ACTS 2:38

Baptists are famous for twisting Acts 2:38. The text reads this way: εἰς (for) ἄφεσιν (remission) τῶν (of) ἁμαρτιῶν (sins).

The reason I have included the Greek text is because Baptists are notorious for saying that εἰς is properly translated as “because of.” Thus, the Baptist version of Acts 2:38 has people being baptized because they have already had their sins remitted; i.e. an outward sign of an inward grace. Poppycock! The word εἰς is found 1773 times in the Greek NT and is never translated as “because of.”

The passages are listed below for your consideration. The translation of εἰς is the first word in the right hand column.
