

MSCH has been serving dysfunctional families, helping to raise their children for over 40 years.

The age of the "orphanage" has long passed. Facilities that care for children are now called treatment centers or residential child care facilities. MSCH is licensed by the State of Colorado as a Residential Child Care Facility (RCCF). We accept children who, for one reason or another, cannot live with their families. The children we are licensed to accept range in age from 3 to 17 years of age.